New State Budget Surprises No One, Says Legislator

By VINCENT THOMAS
Assemblyman, 68th District
Prediction that our 1964 sessions would prove mighty stormy have come true even sooner than was expected. As I write this, one of the special sessions bills, on which no trouble was foreseen, is tied up in the Senate, awaiting action by its Judiciary Committee. Therefore, the Legislature has been forced into an unusual weekend recess. Previously, both houses had anticipated recessing on the third day, to reconvene both the budget and special sessions early in March.
No one was much surprised by the $3.66 billion budget proposed for fiscal 1964-65 by the Governor. Up about $400 million, or six per cent over the approved expenditure program for the current year, the total again sets a new record for size. The Governor told us he feels the budget is "soundly in balance," without new taxes, and will produce a small surplus of $8.6 million by the end of this year.
So far as the proposed expenditure program is concerned, education will account for the largest portion, 42.4 per cent. Highway transportation comes next with 21.1, and health and welfare third, with 18.6 per cent of the total. The principal sources of anticipated revenue will be the sales tax, 30.3 per cent; highway user taxes, 21.6 per cent; bank and corporation tax, 12.8 per cent and the personal income tax, 12.2 per cent.

THE SENATE Finance and the Assembly Ways and Means Committees are already starting their tough job of wading through the thousands of items in the 1,329 page budget document. Working with them will be our own Legislative Analyst, budgeters from the Department of Finance, and representatives from the many agencies involved. The Analyst has already given us a serious warning about our future state fiscal problems. By the end of the next ten years, he forecasts the total state budget will have doubled, to $7 billion. Construction costs for higher education and other state needs will add another $2 billion of bond funds.
The 43 items included in the Governor's call for our special session brought mixed reactions. Many questioned the need for putting some matters on the agenda at all, saying that they are not so urgent that they cannot wait action at the 1965 general session. Others called attention to the fact that many items were subjects either defeated or not acted on at our 1963 session.

LEADERS OF both the Senate and the Assembly criticized strongly the inclusion of legislation relating to royalties from the Long Beach oil wells. They declared that revision of the division of such royalties between the state and the city is not a matter of great urgency, and is now under study by committees instructed to report to the 1965 session. They predicted that this topic alone might well prolong the special session into May or later.

Another highly controversial matter is state support for the public schools. The administration program calls for an increase over the growth need of some $87.5 million, including $27.5 million from the county-wide "equalization tax," which was defeated in both the 1961 and 1963 sessions. Educators called the total "niggardly."

The proposal for two bond issues totalling $610 million for new state construction and for building loans to school districts also drew considerable fire. All in all, it seems our special session will be both long and contentious.

City Asks Help For Elections

Torrance, Gardena, and Lawndale have requested the services of the County Registrar of Voters for municipal elections on April 14, reports Supervisor Kenneth Hahn. Hahn said the board of Supervisors approved the requests on his motion. The individual cities will be billed for the services by the county.
